PROJECT & PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

There are many challenges facing a business undertaking information technology projects. Such projects can result in less capability than expected and at a greater cost. In hindsight, causes are easily explained in terms of four fundamental root causes:

- Estimates for costs, schedule and derived benefits are overly optimistic while risks are rarely considered or quantified
- Project Scope may double or triple during the lifecycle of the project
- Business logic inherent in legacy systems is often not well understood, thus delaying delivery
- Cultural and skill requirements from radical changes to critical business processes require a longer period of adaptation than expected

The Deer Park Group helps companies manage these challenges in order to reap the maximum return from investments in information technology. We offer world class Project Management and PMO expertise for projects at all levels of budget, resources and duration.

Our associates have a successful track record in providing business solutions by applying advanced information technology across diverse corporate environments. Our partners are multi-faceted, hands-on and goal-oriented professional managers with experience both broad and deep.
